

FOREIGN NEWS.

LEADING TOPICS AT MANY POINTS.

THE EMPEROR IN MOSCOW—THE DEBRY WON BY ST. BLAISE—HUNGARIAN AFFAIRS—HARVEST PROSPECTS IN FRANCE.

In Moscow yesterday the Emperor witnessed the ceremony of blessing the imperial flag. The race for the Derby Stakes on Epsom Downs was won by Sir F. Johnston's colt St. Blaise. A newspaper in Tralee, County Kerry, has been seized for seditious utterances. Much excitement prevails in County Mayo over the murder conspiracy disclosures. Further evidence has been secured against the Liverpool dynamite conspirators. Archbishop Croke has arrived in Dublin from Rome. The harvest prospects in France are favorable.

CORONATION CEREMONIES IN MOSCOW.

Moscow, May 23.—The ceremony of blessing the imperial flag was performed in the Kremlin to-day in the presence of the Emperor, the Empress, the Imperial family and the Emperor's military household. The Emperor and Empress drove from the Alexandrovsky Palace to the Kremlin in an open carriage without an escort.

The Duke of Montpensier and the Duke of Aosta, who are to represent the Spanish and Italian Courts respectively at the coronation, have arrived here. The Emperor has sent a telegram to the Emperor William, informing him of his safe entry into Moscow. The latter has in return telegraphed his congratulations to the Emperor.

The persons to be granted amnesty by the Emperor on the occasion of his coronation will include civilians exiled to Arhangelsk and soldiers drafted to disciplinary companies.

The official messenger, of St. Petersburg, denies that an explosion occurred in the dressing-room of the Emperor before his departure for this city. It is said, however, that an explosion, which was due to an escape of gas, did occur opposite the palace.

The success of the Emperor's entrance into Moscow on Tuesday has had a good effect. Greater security is felt, and the value of money has risen. The weather here is pleasant in praise of the coronation.

The Empress was the only lady present at the ceremony of the blessing of the imperial flag. Only seven of the sixty-seven newspaper correspondents were able to attend the ceremony, owing to the strictness of the police. The Emperor ordered the assistant editor of the Moscow Gazette to supply the other journalists with a description of the ceremony.

The Russian Government has given press representatives $220 each to pay carriage hire during the ceremonies.

THE DEBRY WON BY ST. BLAISE.

LONDON, May 23.—The race for the Derby Stakes on Epsom Downs to-day was won by Sir F. Johnston's colt St. Blaise. Lord Ellesmere's bay colt Galahad third. Lord Falkland's bay or brown colt Galahad third. The weather was beautiful. The sun shone brightly, but the temperature was fairly cool. The consequence was that an immense crowd of people left London for Epsom Downs to witness the race. The Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Albany and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught were among the spectators. There were numerous Americans present, including Mr. Lord, Mr. Ten Broeck and Mr. Walton.

The starters, in addition to the three colts already named, were C. Blanton's bay colt The Prince, C. Harrison's brown colt Goldfield, Mr. Levee's bay colt Ladislas, Lord Hastings's bay colt Beau Brummel, C. Harrison's chestnut colt Splendor, Lord Bradford's chestnut colt Locomotion, Mr. Carver's bay colt Bonjour, and T. Cannon's bay colt Signomphoe. The betting at the start was 7 to 2 against Galahad, 5 to 1 against St. Blaise, 11 to 2 against Ladislas, 10 to 1 against Beau Brummel, 16 to 1 against Signomphoe, 100 to 1 against Splendor, 40 to 1 against Locomotion, 100 to 1 against Bonjour, and 100 to 1 against The Prince.

Major made the running at the start, attended by Signomphoe. They had a clear lead of Ladislas, The Prince, Splendor and Goldfield, the four being bunched, to Ladislas, which was followed by Galahad, took up the running, followed by St. Blaise, which took second place and passed St. Blaise very hard, but did not succeed in catching up with him. St. Blaise won by a neck. Ladislas finished half a length behind St. Blaise. The time of the race was 2:48 1/2. Goldfield finished fourth. Beau Brummel fifth, Splendor sixth, Bonjour seventh and Signomphoe last. After the race, St. Blaise's jockey, was cheered loudly as he returned to the winner.

St. Blaise is a chestnut colt, by Hermit out of Fuzze. As a two-year-old he won several races. In June, 1882, he won the Stockbridge Stakes at the Hibernia Club, meeting the St. George's, and ran second to Macheath for the Hibernia Stakes. He ran a dead heat with Elzevir at Grand National at Newmarket.

AT CROKER'S WITH THE HIGH-WEIGHT PLATE. The race for the Epsom High-weight Plate (handicap) was won by T. Jennings's three-year-old colt Auctioneer, with P. Peck's three-year-old colt Charlie second and Mr. Ten Broeck's aged chestnut horse Chevalier third. There were no other starters. The betting at the start was 11 to 1 for Auctioneer, 6 to 4 for Charlie, and 10 to 1 for Chevalier. Auctioneer won by a neck. Chevalier was a bad third.

AN IRISH NEWSPAPER SEIZED.

TRALEE, May 23.—The police have seized the plant of The Kerry Sentinel and prevented the publication of that newspaper, which is the property of Mr. Harrington, member of the House of Commons. The cause of the seizure, it is supposed, was the publication of a notice in The Sentinel of the intention of the Government to send a bill to the House of Commons to amend the law relating to the publication of newspapers.

THE LIVERPOOL DYNAMITE PLOTS. LIVERPOOL, May 23.—The dynamite conspirators Deasy, Flannigan, Kennedy, O'Herlihy and O'Connor have been committed for trial. They received their defenses. Evidence was adduced to show that the explosives found in the possession of those who were apprehended in Liverpool were similar to those used in the attempts to destroy buildings in London and Glasgow.

THE POPE AND THE IRISH PEOPLE.

DUBLIN, May 23.—Archbishop Croke, of the Diocese of Cashel and Emly, arrived in Kingston to-day on his return from Rome, and received an enthusiastic welcome. In replying to an address presented to him he said that he had no reason to be dissatisfied with the result of his visit to Rome.

John Dillon is a member of the Freeman's Journal and the Irish people to make the Freeman's Journal a success that the Pope will read the Freeman's Journal and the Freeman's Journal will read the Freeman's Journal.

LAND LEAGUE MATTERS IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, May 23.—A belief in current in Irish National circles that despite the action of the clergy the local Irish societies will form themselves into League branches. A leading member of the Montreal branch of the Irish Land League says they will probably abandon any scheme for affiliation with the American League, and hold a convention and form a similar organization.

THE REVOLUTION IN ECUADOR.

(BY THE CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT.)

GUAYAQUIL, May 23.—Last night the enemy came within the radius of the fortifications, and over 100 shots were fired on both sides. The firing was kept up until 3 a. m. to-day. There is great excitement, as an attack on Guayaquil is expected. President Velutilla was present at the firing during the night.

PANAMA, May 12.—The last act of the Dictator Velutilla has been to plunder the Bank of Ecuador, a private corporation, of $320,000, despite the protests of the consuls and the captain of the men of war stationed at Guayaquil. He has offered his men a chance to sack the place. An English and an Italian vessel are constantly stationed in the river for the protection of foreign interests. Trustworthy reports state that many soldiers were deserting Velutilla, that the consuls and the captain of the men of war were removing the ammunition, and that another officer on duty on the river turned over his entire command to the rebels.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA.

PANAMA, May 12.—The Argentine Bariloche Pass, between Chile and the Argentine territory, which has been recently discovered, will place the Pacific within seventy miles, by an easy road, of the extreme western Argentine outpost at Lake Nahuelhuapi; and it will now be possible to construct a railroad from the Gulf of San Matias, Patagonia, on the Atlantic, across the pampas and through the pass to Chile on the Pacific, which will be less than one-half the length of that now being constructed from Buenos Aires to Santiago de Chile.

Red cotton English prints imported into Chile have been found to contain 2.11 grammes of white arsenic to the square meter. Their importation has been prohibited.

The United States steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

During the month of March 8,554,458 pounds of nitrate were shipped from Antofagasta, making a total of 24,458,250 pounds for the present year. The nitrate is valued at $2,445,458. The value of the nitrate is $2,445,458.

The Anglo-American steamer Essex left Callao on May 5 for Honolulu via Kure, the steamer, recently arrived in Lima, on board. At Honolulu Kure will be transferred to a Pacific Mail steamer, which will carry him to San Francisco. The Essex has been detached from the Pacific Squadron and attached to that in Chinese waters.

THE FIRE RECORD.

A BRAVE WOMAN LOSES HER LIFE.

A fire which caused the death of a brave woman and placed eight men in great danger, broke out at 9:30 a. m. yesterday, in the old-fashioned three-story house, No. 190 Greenwich St., between Broadway and the Bowery. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen. The fire spread rapidly, and the flames were seen in the windows of the upper stories. The fire was extinguished by the fire department, but the woman, Mrs. Guegan, was killed. She was sixty-one years old and lame with rheumatism. She was on the stairs to the top floor, probably with the intention of warning Mrs. Tranchard and her children. Mrs. Tranchard had gone to Brooklyn, however, and the children were at school.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

BURNED TO DEATH.

BOSTON, May 23.—The dwelling-house and furniture of Henry W. Moody, in Lynde, N. H., were burned yesterday. Lynde Moody, an eighty-year-old man, was burned to death. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen. The fire spread rapidly, and the flames were seen in the windows of the upper stories. The fire was extinguished by the fire department, but the woman, Mrs. Guegan, was killed. She was sixty-one years old and lame with rheumatism. She was on the stairs to the top floor, probably with the intention of warning Mrs. Tranchard and her children. Mrs. Tranchard had gone to Brooklyn, however, and the children were at school.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had been destroyed, and the body was half buried up. Dr. J. F. Chauveau, of No. 134 West Houston St., took charge of the remains. He had been a friend to the woman for many years. The flames destroyed property in the house worth about $2,000, and the house was damaged about $1,000. The losses were covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion of gas from Mrs. Guegan's stove.

Before the workmen could get to the stairway leading to the lower hall it was on fire, and they were obliged to open a front window and climb to the roof of the building adjoining No. 188 Greenwich St. By assisting each other they all escaped without injury, although the retreat was difficult and dangerous. Mrs. Guegan was lost sight of in the smoke. The firemen extinguished the flames in half an hour. They found the body of Mrs. Guegan on the stairs of the upper staircase. Every part of the woman's clothing had